Thrive as a leader

You can enhance your success as a supervisor or manager if you adopt certain strategies that help you support today's ever-evolving workforce.

- Inspire commitment. Recognize and tangibly reward team members' achievements. Employees at all levels want to be recognized for their contributions.
- Draw upon emotional intelligence. Be aware of the emotional environment within your team(s). Carefully observe and listen to your staff so they feel you not only hear them, but understand.
- Embrace technological advancements. Adopt and leverage new technologies that help you foster innovation and stay competitive in your industry.
- Manage change skillfully. Strive to view change positively and develop effective strategies for facilitating change in your area. Consistently help your staff understand and adapt to change.
- Advocate for continuous learning. Commit to continually acquiring new skills and knowledge yourself, while advocating for staff development programs that lead to higher employee engagement and talent retention.

Mind Your Mental Health

March includes National Drug and Alcohol Facts Week®

Observed during the third full week of March, National Drug and Alcohol Facts Week aims to inspire dialogue and offer education about the science of drug use and addiction. A number of surprising facts illustrate the seriousness of the issue today.

- Alcohol is the most commonly abused substance and the third most common cause of death in the U.S. Although legal, alcohol kills over 95,150 Americans each year.
- Thirteen is the average age at which children experiment with drugs.
- An estimated 60% of poor work performance can be tied to drug or alcohol use.
- 138 million Americans age 12 and over drink alcohol, and 20.4% of them have an alcohol use disorder.
- Among those with an alcohol use disorder, less than 8% receive treatment.
- Common reactions to substance use include needing to consume more to get the same effect; substance dependency; painful withdrawal symptoms; high blood pressure and stroke; problems with the liver and pancreas; development of certain cancers; loss of motivation; depression and anxiety.

Working on Wellbeing

Fostering Physical Wellbeing – Encouraging Movement for a Healthier Workplace

Supporting employees' physical wellbeing is essential for fostering a healthy and productive workplace. Promote regular physical activity. Encourage movement throughout the day to counteract the health risks associated with prolonged sitting. This can include organizing walking meetings, providing standing desks or initiating team fitness challenges.
