Addiction disturbs the health of the company and its employees, causing productivity and attendance to slump and health insurance claims to soar. How should employers and HR professionals respond? Are there more effective practices, providers or benefits that could help contain costs and keep employees healthy?

Tune in for this webinar, where we discuss.

Objectives

- Learn how employers can respond to the mental health and substance use crises
- Review and examine the initial data from Magellan's Centers of Excellence program
- Distinguish the quality practices and providers from the rest
- Discuss the evaluation, purchase and delivery of different benefits and services
